

Canada's year to remember

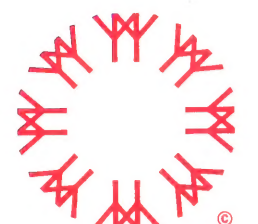

All Highways for Holidays in 1967 led Canada, "at home" to the world during its 100th birthday. One Canadian province was celebrating together in confederation to form one nation, with Ottawa as its capital.

From Coast to Coast, across seven time zones and all year long, thousands of communities are celebrating everywhere new theatres, sports grounds, museums and art centres are being retrace historic waterways from the St Lawrence Valley to the Pacific Ocean, ballet, theatre and opera, forming delightful audiences across the country creating with humour and nostalgia.

A small add to the tall ones, "son et lumière", ethnic festivals, exciting exhibitions, confederation train tours, and more.
